

What is the Montessori Method: A Parent's Guide from Richmond Hill Montessori, Plano

For over a decade, Richmond Hill Montessori in Plano, Texas has been implementing the transformative Montessori Method to nurture young minds in our community. Developed by Dr. Maria Montessori in the early 1900s, this child-centered educational philosophy emphasizes independence, freedom within limits, and respect for each child's natural psychological development. Let us guide you through the principles that make our Plano Montessori program special.

The Core Principles at Richmond Hill Montessori

Child-Led Learning in Our Plano Campus

At Richmond Hill Montessori, we believe children are naturally eager to learn and capable of initiating learning in a supportive environment. Our skilled Plano teachers guide rather than direct, allowing students to choose work that matches their developmental level and interests.

Our Prepared Environment

Our Plano classrooms are meticulously designed to support independent learning and exploration. Materials are arranged on low, open shelves, allowing children to select their work independently. Each item in our Richmond Hill Montessori classroom serves a specific purpose in your child's development.

Mixed-Age Classrooms at Richmond Hill

Our Montessori classes typically span three-year age groups (3-6, 6-9, 9-12 years). This structure, which has proven successful in our Plano community, allows younger children to learn from older peers while older children reinforce their knowledge by teaching younger classmates.

Key Features of Richmond Hill Montessori Education

Hands-On Learning Materials

Our Plano classrooms feature carefully curated Montessori materials that isolate specific concepts and are self-correcting. These materials allow children to learn through direct experience and discovery rather than instruction alone.

Freedom of Movement

At Richmond Hill Montessori, children are free to move around the classroom, choose their work, and proceed at their own pace. This freedom helps develop self-discipline and confidence while respecting each child's individual learning style.

Uninterrupted Work Periods

Our Plano campus day includes long blocks of uninterrupted work time, allowing children to deeply engage with materials and develop concentration skills.
